□ Interim Measures

- A. The above completion requirements are applicable starting with 2012 freshmen.
 - ① The previous course completion requirements are applicable to students who entered the program before 2011.
 - ② The previous course completion requirements are also applicable to students who entered the doctorate program after graduating from the master's program at the Graduate School of Culture

Technology (applicable to students who graduated from the master's degree program before February 2012).

- B. The entering class of 2007 and earlier entering classes must take the seminar class once; the entering classes of 2008 or later must take the seminar class twice, 3 times, and 4 times for thesis master, coursework master, and Ph.D., respectively.
- C. Recognition of Credits Earned at Other Universities
 - ① Credits that have already been earned at other universities may be accepted up to 24 credits (except research credits) upon gaining approvals from the advisor, professor in charge of the course, and the department head.
 - ② Transfer students (those who finished the doctoral program for specialized research personnel at other universities) are regarded as satisfying the completion requirements of the Graduate School of Culture Technology, once all the coursework credits obtained at the other university (except research credits) are accepted. However, they are required to take the seminar class twice.
- D. Abolished courses of the Graduate School of Culture Technology that were taken before 2011 are accepted as credits obtained at the Graduate School of Culture Technology.
- E. Designation of Substitute for Abolished Course
