2. Descriptions of Elective General Courses

HSS581 Graduate English Writing

3:0:3(6)

The course aims to develop students' academic writing skills such as how to write a sentence, paragraph and essay and different types of essays in addition to grammatical knowledge, including perfect tense, to infinitives vs. gerunds, and modal verbs, essential for academic writing.

HSS583 Graduate English Presentation

3:0:3(6)

The primary objective of this course is to help students increase their confidence and skill in giving presentations in academic situations. This course will train students in English skills necessary for academic presentations. Though linguistic training is the primary purpose of this course, it will also cover non-linguistic skills; body language, eye contact, and appropriate use of voice as well as the use of audio-visual technology for presentation. Throughout the term, we will work on in-class peer evaluation and feedback. Presentation practices will be recorded to be used for self-evaluation and further improvement

HSS585 Principles and Application of Vision

3:0:3(6)

Central to this course is understanding of the principles of human vision in form, color, and depth perception. Knowledge of human visual information processing will be incorporated into structuring artificial visual objects in an ergonomic way. In addition, this course covers issues of psychological processing in aesthetic appreciation of visual objects.

HSS586 Introductory Korean for Foreigners I

3:1:3(6)

This course is designed to provide systematic Korean language instruction to enable the student to speak Korean and to understand Korean culture. In this class, students will learn how to read and write Hangul (Korean writing system) and become familiar with Korean pronunciation. After finishing this class, students will be able to understand fundamental sentence structure and develop a strong command of basic and daily use of Korean.

HSS587 Introductory Korean for Foreigners II3:1:3(6)

Introductory Korean for Foreigners II is the continuation of Korean I. This course is designed for students who have a basic knowledge in Korean or who have completed Korean I. The class will continue to practice the four language skills acquired in Korean I: reading, writing, listening, and communicative skills. Students will complete the study of basic Korean grammar.
